IX. Race Processes and the Race Course

1. All participants race without prior knowledge of the race course (on-sight).
2. Training on the race course is forbidden.
3. Unless otherwise specified by the organizer, the race consists of a total of ten special stages (timed segments; hereafter referred to as SS) divided into two days and each other connected with untimed transit sections. The organizer will confirm the number of SS at the Riders' Briefing at the latest.
4. Transit sections are to get participants from the finish of one SS to the start of the next SS. Participants may move in groups, but always on their own without the use of outside help.
5. The organizer may include a mass start special stage. In this case, participants are given a time bonus based on their ranking in the SS. The organizer will notify the participants of the key for converting the ranking into a time bonus at the Riders' Briefing at the latest.
6. The SS are mostly routed on forest roads, dirt roads and natural trails of varied surfaces. The route is not extremely riding skills demanding. Transit sections may be routed on public roads.
7. The SS and transit sections are spread out over a loop of about 70 km long, which the participants complete once each day of the race. On day two the loop is ridden in the opposite direction.
8. The route is the same for participants of all categories.
9. The organizer may set a time limit for completing the race. Participants shall be informed about the time limit at the Riders' Briefing at the latest. The countdown starts with the start of the first SS and ends when crossing the finish line of the last SS of the day. If a participant exceeds the limit, the time over the limit will be added to the sum of the times from each SS. The race director is allowed to extend the limit if more than 20 % of participants have exceeded the original time limit.
10. The route may begin with either a transit section or a SS.

11. If the race begins with a transit section, participants start in groups according to the start list from the place specified by the organizer. Every 10 minutes a group of 20 athletes starts in order of race numbers.
12. Into each SS, participants start individually in the order of their own choice in intervals of 20-30 seconds following the marshal's instructions.
13. The ranking is determined by the sum of the times achieved by each participant in all SS.
14. In case of force majeure, the organizer is entitled to terminate the race early. Only the times achieved in the SS completed by all participants will be counted for ranking purposes, except for those participants who have withdrawn from the race for other reasons.
15. The race course is marked with marking tape, mini flags and directional signs. Those parts of the race course where the regularity requires marking of obstacles or direction change, those shall be marked on both sides of the race course, at least on the inside of the turn. The participants must ride around the outside of all mini flags marking the inside of a turn with both front and rear wheels. Turns, obstacles and other places of the race course marked by mini flags on both sides of the race course must be ridden by the participants with both wheels between the mini flags. If a participant goes off the track, he/she must return to the race course at the nearest possible point and must not endanger or restrict other participant.
